Study Report Draft

Bob Wear, right, and the Rev. Strauss Atkinson study the draft of the final report of the Hale-Aikin Committee of 24 during a meeting of the Randall County Committee Friday.

Randall Nixes Hale-Aikin Long School Year

Six of the 53 proposals of the tentative draft of the final report of the Hale-Aikin Committee of 24 were voted down by 33 members of the Randall County Hale-Aikin study committees. The remainder of the proposals were approved, with one exception, on which no action was taken.

The Randall committee, meeting Friday night in the high school cafeteria, turned down a longer school term, allowing transportation inside cities, allowing transportation for children whose route to school involves unusual hazards, taking the state out of the ad valorem tax field in two instances, and requiring a system of competitive bidding on state level.

The proposal to lengthen the school term took the longest discussion of the group. The proposal was that schools should have a term of a minimum of 180 days or 190 days, with the allocation of Minimum Foundation Funds based on the number of months taught. The present school term minimum is 175 days.

In discussion, members of the Randall group felt that an extra five or 15 days would not be of additional benefit unless the curriculum was expanded to take care of the additional time. It appeared to be the consensus of opinion that the extra expense of the longer term would not be of enough material benefit. The vote on the proposal was 22 against and three for.

The group voted to notify the state committee that a uniform school year and a uniform proposal should have been submitted. The vote was 14-0.

The transportation proposals voted down were: "(1) The provision of the law imposing a limitation on the transportation of children living within city limits of cities where there are public transportation systems should be amended so that all children will have equal opportunities under the law for public school transportation;" and "2) Any child whose route to school involves unusual hazards should be entitled to transportation under the Foundation Program regardless of the distance involved. The determination of "hazardous" should be made by the local board of education and approved by the Texas Education Agency."

The vote on the first proposal was 13-7 and on the second, 18-1. Reasoning behind the decisions appeared to be that the cost of transporting city children to school all over the state could mount to a greater sum than the cost of the rest of the school children. It was felt that the second proposal would put too much pressure on local boards in defining which are "hazardous" routes.

The vote on the state withdrawing from the ad valorem tax field was 9-2 against the proposal. A second proposal was voted down 10-2. It was that the state should find some other way to purchase textbooks through tax sources other than ad valorem taxes.

It was felt that such a suggestion would be tantamount to agreeing that a state income or sales tax should be instituted. One member of the group pointed out that the state is presently in the hole by about $120 million, the suggestions of the Hale-Aikin committee could cost another $112 million, and the withdrawal of the state from ad valorem taxes would leave no other alternatives.

The vote against the competitive bidding proposal was almost unanimous. It was felt that the local board could obtain competitive bids and obtain goods and services when they are needed much quicker and cheaper in general.

The decisions of all counties in the state are to be submitted to the state committee to make up the final report. The state committee will submit the report to the next session of the legislature for action.

(Editor's note: The state Hale-Aikin Committee approved a standard 9½-months school term (180 days) and voted to include the proposal as a recommendation to the legislature. The state committee met Monday in Austin.)

Homemaking Test To Be Given Here

The Betty Crocker Future Homemaker of America Test, an examination of homemaking knowledge and attitudes, will be given Dec. 2 at Canyon High School, according to Mrs. Clara B. Long, homemaking teacher.

The local test is the first step in the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Senior girls who enter the contest will be competing for $106,000 in college scholarships.

Last year's local winner was Patricia Hardaway.

The 50 minute written test will cover family relationships, spiritual and moral values, child development and care, health and safety, utilization and conservation of physical resources, money management, recreation, home care and beautification, community participation and continuing education.

Mrs. Long expects about 45 girls to take the test.

Goodman Rites Held in Chapel

Memorial services for Kenneth Gene Goodman, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Goodman, were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Sunday by the Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Assisting at the services, held in the Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel, was the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Burial was in Memory Gardens under the direction of Warren-LaGrone.

Pallbearers were George Stevens, Irving SoRelle Jr., Robert Norman, Ben Campbell, Ed Stewart and Edward Norman.

The youngster died at 10:45 p. m. Friday in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. He was born Nov. 2, 1957.

Surviving are his parents; two sisters, Martha Annette, 8, and Cynthia Ellise, 7; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Goodman of Canyon and Mrs. Emma Jean Jackson of Denver, Colo.; and his great-grandparents, Mrs. Ellise Goodman of Holyoke, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leonard of Bronte.

No Drawing Set For Thanksgiving

Floyd Kiser won $100 in last Thursday's drawing on the square. Perkin Hawkins won the second prize of $15 and Mrs. Douglas Marshall won $10.

No drawing is scheduled for Thanksgiving night, and the next drawing will be at 7:30 p. m. Dec. 4.

Tall as a Mountain

From the bottom of the hole, the concrete stands in the new Buffalo Stadium seem to stretch way, way up in the air, and the embankment looks as tall as a mountain.

Board Votes To Save Money

The Canyon school board decided Tuesday night to accept a proposal from bonding companies that would save about $42,000 in interest during the life of the bonds voted last summer.

The proposal was that $385,000 of the bonds would be refunded and new bonds issued on a different maturity schedule. The old schedule was for 23 years and the new schedule will be for 20 years, according to Bob Davis of Columbian Securities.

He told the board that the bonds could be refunded because of an increase in tax valuations that was not figured when the original maturity schedule was drawn up. The valuation at the time the schedule was made was $17.3 million. At present it is $18.1 million.

Davis said that repayment of the bonds could be handled with about the same tax levy as had been planned under the old schedule, even if the valuation does not continue to grow.

The board conferred with William C. Townes and Associates, architects for the new high school.

Jarnagin Okayed By Booster Club

Full support for Clark Jarnagin was voted in a resolution of the Buffalo Boosters Club in the final meeting of the season Monday night.

Hal Mayfield of Amarillo offered a resolution to give the WT coaches a "vote of confidence and look forward to next year." He said that it wouldn't be right to switch with the program on the right track. The motion was passed unanimously.

Jarnagin expressed his appreciation for the support of the club during the year. He said he felt that he must have the confidence and loyalty of everyone, and if he couldn't get it he would prefer to be let out of the job now.

He told the club that the team should be better next year because of the freshmen coming on, and the experience the sophomores gained. The assistant coaches, Odis Crowell, Jackie Weldon, Jerry Johnson and Joe Brooks seconded Jarnagin in short talks.

In other business, the club discussed the two playoff games for Buffalo Stadium this week, and gave details of the Eagle Feed for Canyon high players Monday night.

Canyon Librarian Addresses TLA

Mrs. Charles Harter, librarian for Canyon Elementary school, reported on her recent trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., library conference to the annual meeting of the District 1 of the Texas Library Association.

The group met Saturday at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

Principal speakers were Thelma Andrews, state president, and William K. Peace, assistant librarian of the Texas State Library in Austin.

Other Canyon librarians attending were F. M. Blackburn, Linnie Babston and Albessa Stephenson, all from the West Texas State College Library, and Mrs. J. L. Gilmore, Canyon High School.

Christmas Street Decorations Here

Canyon's new Christmas decorations for the new street light system arrived Tuesday, Chamber of Commerce Manager Roland Black said.

Plans are that the decorations will be put up beginning Friday morning. It will probably take several days to install all of them. They will be put up around the square and down Fourth Avenue to the museum.

DA Will File Tax Suits Soon

Preparation of suits for collection of delinquent Randall County personal taxes will begin Monday, Criminal District Attorney A. W. Lair said Tuesday.

He said the suits will be filed as soon as preparations have been made, but was unable to give any schedule of filing at this time.

County Tax Collector Bill Money said quite a number of delinquent taxpayers have been contacting his office to arrange payment. Those who are delinquent must contact the office in Canyon, because delinquent records are kept in the main office.

Neither the city commission nor the school board has decided whether or not to join the county's tax suits.

Livestock Group Elects Officers

James I. Fletcher was elected president of the Randall County Junior Livestock Association as the group met last Thursday to elect officers and plan the 1959 Junior Livestock Show.

Other officers are Cristler Crain, vice-president; Bruce Winn, secretary-treasurer; John Cook, general superintendent of the 1959 show; and Richmond Hales, John Cook, A. C. Miller, Jesse Hicks, Hosea Foster and J. O. Parker, directors to serve three-year terms.

The stock show, open to all Randall County boys and girls, will open at 8:30 a. m. Jan. 24. Rules will be the same as in previous years with one exception—there will be separate divisions for 4-H project records and Future Farmers of America records.

Committee chairmen for the show are John Taylor, sales; J. O. Parker, finance and membership; Ray Metcalf, show arrangements and grounds; Richmond Hales, sales ring; C. V. Conatser, beef; James Bible, swine; and Ed Wieck, sheep.

John Brazzil, county agent, said he expected 10 steers, 60 hogs and 25 lambs to be entered.

The show is sponsored each year by the Randall County Junior Livestock Association. Membership fee for the group is $5. The money raised goes to pay premiums and defray expenses.

Regional Games Set in Stadium

Two regional football games are scheduled for Buffalo Stadium this week.

At 3 p. m. today, the Groom Tigers and the New Deal Lions will play for the Region 1-B championship. Groom defeated Happy last week for the Bi-District championship and New Deal beat Whitharral in bi-district play.

At 2:30 p. m. Thanksgiving Day, the White Deer Bucks and Farwell Steers will meet for the Region 1-A championship and the right to advance in the statewide playoffs.

White Deer has a 10 win, one tie record, with the tie a 6-6 score with Stinnett. Farwell has 10 wins and one loss, with the loss a 15-12 game with Friona.

The playoff games are being sponsored by the Buffalo Booster Club and the Canyon Chamber of Commerce. Canyon men will handle ticket sales and collection, hosting of the visitors and other duties at the stadium.

Two Return to Eagle Cage Team

With only two returning lettermen, the Canyon Eagles basketball team started their season with a 59-46 loss to Panhandle last Friday night, and have nearly two games a week scheduled through the middle of February.

Dumas beat both the A and B teams Tuesday night. The Eagle score was 65-47 and the B-team score was 56-35.

The Eaglettes lost to Panhandle last Friday by a score of 52-40. High pointers for the girls team were Patricia Salmon with 14 points and Marilyn Winn with 12.

Coach Bill West said he expects only a "fair" season because of inexperience, and picks Dimmitt to win the district. The two returning lettermen are Larry Brotherton and Frank Davis.

Brotherton was high point man for Canyon in the Panhandle game with 16 points. Jerry Richardson was second with 13 points. Two Panhandle players tied for game high honors with 21 points each.

The Eagles, both boys and girls, play Gruver here Friday night and play Panhandle again in Panhandle next Tuesday night. Girls games in Canyon begin at 6:30 p. m. and boys games at 8 p. m.

Loaded Proposals

"Tentative Draft of the Final Report," the title said on the outside of the booklet. And those around the table were supposed to vote yes or no on a number of proposals inside. The booklet was prepared by the Hale-Aikin Committee of 24, the top deck of the state-wide study of schools.

And the group was the 33 people present at a meeting in Randall County Friday night. Most were members of one or another of the five study committees that worked the local schools over last winter.

But to our mind, there was a catch in the affair. The first proposal prepared by the state committee suggested a 9½ or 10-months school year instead of the present 9 months. Actually, the suggestion was 180 or 190 school days instead of 175 school days.

Now, the Randall County people could not see that an additional five days of school would make any difference, nor would 15. So they voted against the proposal 22 to 3. And they added, the school term across the state should be uniform, and a uniform proposal should have been submitted to the county committees.

Now that's all fine and dandy. The state committee has a clear-cut expression from Randall County. This county does not want a 180 or 190-day school year.

And up sprang the catch, the rotten smell in Denmark, so to speak!

The rest of the book was predicated on a lengthened school year. For instance, the transportation formula should provide for an additional amount for longer operation, one proposal suggested. If the people in this county voted for that proposal, it could be construed that we are in favor of a longer school year. And if we voted against the proposal, it can be construed that we don't think the transportation formula should be changed to allow more money for longer operation.

And a little further on. There was a proposal that teachers be given so much money for a 10-month year and so much for a 9½-month year. The amounts gave a $44 a month increase in salary.

If the people in Randall County's meeting voted against the proposal, it would mean they were not in favor of raises for teachers. Yet the county committee suggested a raise when the original report was sent in. If the people voted for the raise, it could be construed that we favor a longer school term.

That's the way the tentative draft went. We felt that many of the proposals were so loaded that they were like answering yes or no to the question, "Have you stopped beating your wife?"

We don't know how the rest of the counties in the state will vote. But we feel that the state committee loaded the proposals so that they can do as they please and have statistical backing for their personal decisions.

We don't think that's fair, but we should be used to it by this time. The big powers in the state seldom worry about what the people think.

Right Funny

Do you suppose that some folks' consciences bother them?

County tax collector Bill Money says he owes the newspapers an advertising bill because an amazing number of people have been coming by his office to pay up delinquent personal property taxes. School collector Lee Foster says his rate of collection has been quite high.

We think that's kind of funny. The delinquent tax rolls are loaded with names, and the lenient way of thinking would be that many had simply forgotten their payments.

But when the threat of exposure comes they rush right in to pay up.

The Canyon News plans to print the names of every person against whom a tax suit is filed. And the suits will be filed. If you are delinquent and don't want your name published, the way out is to pay up soon.

If not, maybe a lot of other people will think it's right funny to read about you.

Tax Upon Tax

(This editorial is reprinted from the Canadian Record.—The Editor)

Give us this day our daily bread . . . tax free.

That might well be the prayer of Texas citizens who are already hearing strong talk of a general sales tax as the answer to Texas' financial problems when the Legislature convenes next year.

So far it's pretty much of a whispering campaign . . . with few high-ranking politicians anxious to give voice to the suggestion or accept responsibility for recommending it . . . but the whisper is growing in volume.

The polite (and politic) term for it right now is "broadening the tax base" . . . which is Government English for "putting the bite on everything in sight."

The tax base is already pretty broad . . . and the sales tax is nothing new in Texas. We have sales taxes . . . plenty of 'em . . . on specific items already, and the "daily bread" is carrying its share.

If the Legislature would consider replacing these scores of more-or-less hidden taxes with an out-in-the- open general sales tax, we might consider that the idea has some merit. But the tax mathematicians understand only addition and multiplication . . . the fine art of subtraction seems to escape them.

An old saying that used to make sense ran something like this: "Patch beside patch is good housewifery, but patch upon patch is sheer beggary."

The modernized version makes sense, too: "Tax beside tax may be necessary economy, but tax upon tax is sheer robbery."

Honey on Rolls

It was just the taste of honey on homemade rolls Saturday afternoon. That 39-32 win over New Mexico A&M was a delight. From the way we all carried on, you'd have thought it meant West Texas has won the Border Conference championship.

We guess it shows that the last victory is the best victory. If it was necessary to lose all but one of the games on the schedule, we guess it was much better to win the last.

We know it left a sweet taste in our mouths, and no doubt it tastes good to Clark Jarnagin and to all the Buffaloes. Hooray.

Scissor Snippings

Paul Crume in the Dallas Morning News: Miss Katy Cullum and Mrs. Nevita Williams, both of Southwestern Life, went shopping in the hat department at Neiman-Marcus recently.

Miss Cullum spied a large, floppy hat of a noticeably orange color lying on the counter. She picked it up, put it on her head and while clowning around a bit, asked the saleswoman: "Do you ever really sell any of these things?"

The saleswoman gently removed the hat from Miss Cullum's head. "It belongs to the customer standing next to you," she explained.

Miss Cullum fled to the stationery department, leaving Mrs. Williams to explain to the hat's owner. It wasn't hard. The lady turned out to be both very nice and very amused.

From The Prairie: She was home from college for the holidays and the old folks were having a reception in her honor. During the event she brought out some of her gowns to show to the guests. Picking up a beautiful silk creation, she held it up before the admiring crowd.

"Isn't this perfectly gorgeous?" she explained. "Just think, it came from a poor little insignificant worm!"

Her hard-working father looked a moment, then turned and said, "Yes, darn it, and I'm that worm."

Ernest Joiner in the Ralls Banner: Plans for the huge bonfire to mark the opening of Homecoming at Ralls High School Friday simmered down to weiner-roasting proportions Tuesday night when Crosbyton pranksters allegedly put the torch to the huge pile of wood east of the city auditorium.

Firemen answered a call to Jackrabbit football field about an hour before the premature bonfire was held, minus the scheduled pep rally, and also minus any spectators. A large "C" had been burned into the center of the gridiron. Best guess is that it stands for Crosbyton, with whom Ralls plays Homecoming game today at 2:30 p. m. Although water sprinklers were turned on full force, the pranksters were able to spell out the letter "C" in fine order by using gasoline.

A visitor to the Crosbyton field the same night would be struck by the large "R" in the center of it. Now why would Ropesville kids do a thing like that?

People seldom forget the names or faces of others whom they think it may pay to know.

By BOYCE HOUSE

New York:

Most of the men (in spring and summer, anyway) go hatless.

There are no fat policemen — or else they are assigned to the suburbs.

The East and West do meet: two Chinese ladies wearing American blouses and skirts — the skirts slit.

Across the street from Madison Square Garden, a man sneezed and another (probably a Pole) looked around, thinking someone had called his name.

During four days in New York City, I had exactly one conversation. It was when the curtain fell at the end of the first act of "Li'l Abner." For the sake of future historians, the entire conversation is set down:

Man (seated next to House, rising) Pardon me.

House, (rising) Certainly.

The signs of Times Square are one of the chief wonders of the metropolis. There was a painting seven stories high showing Dracula and his bride. Across the way was the advertisement of another movie, "The Vikings," featuring a ship 270 feet long, which is nearly four times as long as an actual Viking vessel was, and the 50-foot sail was of actual canvas.

The electric signs are impressive, especially, of course, at night. A huge Johnny Walker strides along; a man blows a puff of cigaret smoke every 15 seconds; "Time" has a screen which shows silhouettes (in motion) of fashion models, a bull-fight and a cowboy riding a bucking horse; news items are spelled out in electric lights on an endless belt; and a waterfall cascades 50,000 gallons a minute.

And there are many other signs with big letters and designs in every conceivable color — and changing colors — blinking on and off, advertising anything you can think of.

I recalled Gilbert Chesterton's remark when the brilliant English author visited New York for the first time and, beholding Times Square at night, exclaimed, "What a wonderful sight to a man who could not read!"

The subway is a rush and a roar through the dark walls of a tunnel. The aisles are crowded; the cars sway and they lunge to a stop. How anyone could read, converse, take a nap or think aboard the subway — (it is said that people do) — is beyond my understanding. It seemed to me to be transportation stripped of all accessories and trimmings.

The buses, however, were really a bargain. I boarded one on Fifth Avenue at 25th Street and traveled to 155th, which was even more than 140 blocks because of a jog; and there was a procession of scenery — shops, churhces, apartment houses, miles of Central Park — (a glimpse of pleasure-seekers boating); statues; a memorial to Arthur Brisbane, the editor; and the kaleidoscope of Harlem—all of this for 15 cents!

Who, having seen it, can ever forget the park-pavilion, or whatever it is, in the heart of Radio City — a waterfall and a pool, brightly - colored parasols under which people gaily dine, the spot enclosed by skyscrapers costing no-telling-how-many-millions and yet there is serenity - peace - beauty.

St. Patrick's Cathedral, close by, is an architectural wonder in its massiveness and its tall, graceful spires.

Then there is the huge Public Library with its stone lions on guard and above the portals, as one of the three founders, the name of Samuel J. Tilden, the man who was elected but was defrauded of the presidency.

And the Fifth Avenue stores with fabrics, gems, handicraft, pictures, raiment from the ends of the earth — and the Empire State Building and its companions of the incomparable skyline — and the crowds, hundreds of thousands with their dreams and desires!

New York City is a world's fair every day.

To sum it all up and to coin an expression: "It's a great place to visit but I wouldn't want to live there."

Texas state colleges and universities should concentrate on doing the best job possible of one thing — higher education.

To do this, some other things — like student medical services, intramural athletics and certain extension services — will have to be cut loose from tax support.

This is the gist of a report to be presented to the next Legislature by the Commission on Higher Education. Reached after prolonged study and discussion, the Commission's recommendations, if adopted, would be a significant and far-reaching step toward directing state spending on higher educational institutions toward "pure academic pursuits."

Commission will ask the Legislature for the largest appropriation in history, about $67,000,000 annually, for the state's 18 tax-supported colleges and universities. This would be $10,000,000 a year more than is presently provided. Extra money would be used to provide more teachers, better faculty salaries, improved library and research facilities.

On the other hand, the Commission turned thumbs down on the conducting of a number of extra-curricular activities at state expense. Things which the Commission recommends the Legislature NOT include in the higher education budget: (1) intramural athletics, (2) free or low-cost medical services for students, (3) the 17-year-old Cotton Research Council and the Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service, (4) a bureau of business research at Texas Tech, (5) Texas A&M's Texas Transportation Institute and (6) operation of museums as a part of five schools.

Legislative Horizon

Beginning of the 56th Legislature is a little more than seven weeks away. Each week brings forward more touchy problems the lawmakers will have to wrestle.

Some are new; some have been chewed over in many previous sessions. Examples:

CITIES vs. CITY EMPLOYES—Texas League of Municipalities recently voted to ask the Legislature to step out of the field of regulating city employes' salaries, hours and benefits. It's a purely local concern, said the League. State Association of Firefighters and Police Officers Association took a dim view of the proposal. Executives of the two groups met in Austin, promised a fight against "legislation which would erase all the progress of the past 20 years."

FARM IRRIGATION — Texas Farm Bureau delegates voted to ask the Legislature to make it a little easier for them to get a permit to use small ponds on their property for irrigation. At present, farmers may dam up to 200 acre feet and use it for household and domestic purposes. To use it for irrigation, they must get a special permit, reportedly difficult and expensive. Irrigation from farm ponds brought a hot contest between city and rural forces during the water legislation debates in the first special session, fall, 1957.

TRAFFIC SAFETY LAWS — Texas Safety Association, plus other groups, are pushing for legislation aimed at reducing road fatalities. Points in the program: (1) allowing for the results of "drunkmeter" (chemical tests for alcohol) tests to be introduced in court as evidence in driving-while-intoxicated cases, (2) stronger traffic law enforcement, (3) provision for enough highway patrolmen to do the job, (4) changing speed laws to meet standards of new roads, (5) improved traffic courts, (6) a uniform drivers license law and (7) universal driver education.

MEDICAL PAYMENTS —People approved a constitutional amendment to allow for medical aid payments to persons who receive state welfare checks. Next Legislature will have to pass a new law to put this into effect. Question is, how big should payments be? Other states average $6 a month for adults, $3 for children. Such a scale in Texas would cost an estimated $8,000,000 a year.

ADVERTISING — Voters also approved an amendment allowing for state-supported advertising of Texas' advantages. But margin of approval was narrow, foreshadowing some wrangling over how big a thing the program should be.

More School Days

Less fishing and more studying time may be in the offing for Texas school students.

State Board of Education voted to recommend to the Legislature that the present 9-month school year be extended to 10 months. Earlier this month the Hale-Aikin study committee decided to recommend 9½ months of schooling.

A spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association said he thought teachers were generally favorable to a longer year. More will be known after TSTA has its annual convention in Fort Worth over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Among groups that already have expressed opposition are the operators of summer camps and resorts. A longer school year would mean less time for them to be in operation.

Other questions sure to be raised are the extra costs at a time of financial strain and the possible ineffectiveness of study during hot weather weeks.

But probably the sharpest division of thought will be between parents (for) and children (against).

Credit Rates Upheld

State Insurance Department's drastically reduced credit insurance rates are back in effect again.

Last spring the Department issued an order which, in effect, cut in half the legal rate that could be charged for credit insurance. Cosmo Ins. Co., Amarillo, and other sued in an Austin district court and obtained a court order preventing the Department from enforcing the new rule.

But the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals reversed this. It held that Cosmo was entitled to a court hearing as to whether the new rates were just and reasonable. Meanwhile, they're in effect.

ICT Suit Re-Filed

A suit charging scores of well-known persons and financial institutions with a share of the blame for ICT's ill-fated history has been re-filed in an Austin district court.

It was originally filed last June when V. F. Taylor was receiver for the case. Then there was a complicated shake-up and turnover in the liquidator-receiver's office, bringing in an almost all-new team.

Now the suit has been filed again with the name of the new receiver, C. H. Langdeau, substituted on the papers.

This probably is the granddaddy of all damage suits. It asks $15,000,000 damages. Defendants include such renowned names as Lloyds of London and Republic National Bank of Dallas.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Theodore Roosevelt Centennial

A few weeks ago, individuals, organizations, states, and our Nation observed the Centennial of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt.

1958 has been set aside by action of the Congress and the President for focusing the attention of all our citizens on the 100th Anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth and his magnificent contribution to democracy.

These observances are currently in progress and many of you are participating in them.

I call your attention to two forthcoming national events, both testimonials to historical decisions and actions which will ever have their imprint upon the face and heart of America.

Lincoln Sesquicentennial

By joint resolution of both the Houses in Congress and presidential approval, 1959 has been set aside for the observance of the 150th Anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The Congress resolved that the Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission be established because "It is incumbent upon us as a nation to provide for the proper observance of the birth of this great man."

Naturally, the contribution of Abraham Lincoln to our history will be the same in 1959 as it was in 1909, or the same as it will be in 2009. I believe it is fitting, however, that we study every figure of the stature of Lincoln at proper intervals to reaffirm the value of their contribution to the present generation.

There are a number of well established Lincoln groups throughout the country. Many libraries, historical societies and institutions with large collections of Lincolniana have conducted, and are planning to sponsor, programs of their own or to supply material to others. As a result, there is a wealth of information available pertaining to most aspects of the varied and interesting life of Lincoln.

It is not likely that either these programs or any new Lincoln items produced during the Sesquicentennial will change the nation's opinion of him. They will, however, be informative, inspiring, and richly rewarding.

Many pronouncements, and truisms attest to the character of Abraham Lincoln. One which has often come to my attention and impressed me considerably was spoken September 11, 1858, on "Liberty," to wit, "What constitutes the bulwark of our own liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling sea coasts, the guns of our war steamers, or the strength of our gallant and disciplined army.

"These are not our reliance against a resumption of tyranny in our fair land. All of them may be turned against our liberties, without making us stronger or weaker for the struggle. Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in our bosoms. Our defense is in the preservation of the spirit which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands, every where. Destroy this spirit, and you have planted the seeds of despotism around your own doors."

Civil War Centennial

Public Law 85-305 of the 85th Congress established a National Civil War Centennial Commission to prepare for commemorative observance during the years 1961-65. This period of great strife should invoke in all of us reflections of our heritage. It is hoped that in the pursuance of its Centennial observance, every corner of America will focus attention on the principles laid down a century ago and, having done so, look to the future with democratic ideals, more profoundly avowed than ever before.

The National Commission anticipates a truly American approach to this observance; that each locality throughout the country will plan and commemorate the chief events of its history during the great national crisis. Some states, it is realized, were not the sites of great battles but they would send into war regiments which performed heroic deeds and some of its citizens were nationally renowned. In many instances, local industries furnished essential arms or equipment, ships or supplies which were of special help.

Already the National Commission has had indications that the nationwide response will be the most extensive and all-embracing in the history of the Nation, backed by the complete cooperation required to make it a success. Many, many facets of our society throughout the land are mobilizing to create for this Centennial observance the goal of honor and of reverence meant for it.

The National Commission has expressed the hope that every state, community and individual, all dedicated to the ideal of a great America, will manifest the same spirit of cooperation.

If details or information for planning a local observance is desired, it may be secured from the following: The Civil War Centennial Commission, 700 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington 25, D. C.

Mrs. William Green, a winner in the "$200,000 Family Contest" sponsored by the Toilet Articles Division of the Colgate-Palmolive Company, was notified that her prize would be a Johnson floor polisher.

To win, each contestant had to complete a numbered dot outline, and give an appropriate title to the finished picture.

SCIENCE COURSE

Have you been watching the Physics course at 6:30 in the mornings on channel 4? It's being coordinated at West Texas by Dr. Urban and there are quite a few enrolled for the class. I don't always understand the experiments and formulae, but those that I do are most interesting. The Bell Telephone System has the pleasure of being one of its sponsors.

A NEW FAMILY PLAN

For some time now, railroads and airlines have been telling people about "Family Plans." Well, I recently heard of an older couple who thought up their own "Family Plan" for get-togethers with their married children living out of town. Since Sundays always seemed the loneliest day without the family around — and because long distance rates are lower all day — they set up a regular Sunday calling schedule for their sons and daughter. On the first Sunday of the month, Bill, the oldest son, calls and puts the whole family on the line; on the second Sunday, it's the middle boy, Ralph... Jane, the only girl (she has a little girl of her own now) calls on the third Sunday. On the fourth Sunday, it's Tom's turn. He's the youngest, and just married.

I didn't learn what happens when a month has five Sundays, but I do know that these Sunday calls turn a lonely day into a happy one for the folks back home.

TOUCHDOWNS BY TELEPHONE

Many telephone employees aren't as lucky as I am when it comes to football. Usually — if I can duck all the projects my wife saves up for me to do on Saturday — I can enjoy a game on radio or television.

For other telephone people, football is work, because broadcasts and telecast, as well as news accounts of the games, are flashed from city to city over telephone company lines. Here in our part of the country, where there's so much interest in football, it takes a lot of skilled telephone people and a lot of telephone facilities at work to keep fans in touch with what's happening to their favorite teams.

Travel slides and home movies, a much-travelled woman said the other night, are for the folks who make them. Given a chance to perform in public, the amateur picture-maker always shows too many, talks too long, and gives tedious details about his personal experiences.

She had just spent an hour and a half in an uncomfortable chair hearing the details of a summer camping trip through 16 European countries.

"Besides," she added impatiently, "I don't want to camp out in the United States, much less in Europe."

While we don't go for camping either, as a member of the great middle-class whose money never reaches for all desires, we don't mind hearing about someone else's roughing it.

"If we were willing to travel like THAT," we think complacently, "we could go a lot of places, too." Or "It's interesting, but I don't envy them." And we visualize damp camp grounds and 24 hours a day in a small car.

We confess to enjoying these records of someone else's good times. If we've already visited the places, we get a nostalgic pleasure from reviving memories. If we've never seen them, we have a choice. Either we hope to go some day, and so can warm to the promise of such beauty and excitement. Or else we know we'll never get there, and so can make an armchair tour at no expense and be home in time for a good night's sleep in our favorite bed.

Taking travel slides and movies is for the energetic. Watching them is for the lazy. Our slogan continues to be, "You make 'em, we watch!"

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

The supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District are wondering if you might be missing out on a service they have maide available to farmers and ranchers of the district.

Through an agreement between the United States Department of Agriculture and the Randall-Potter SCD, the services of four Soil Conservation Service technicians are made available to you.

When you "sign up" as a cooperator with the Randall-Potter SCD, you are not signing an agreement with the Government — you are signing an agreement with the district, a local organization administered by five locally elected landowners, called supervisors.

Upon becoming a cooperator with the district, the landowner agrees to a few principles of good land use:

1. To use his land within its capabilities.
2. To treat his land in keeping with its needs.
3. To develop as rapidly as feasible a conservation plan for his entire farm.

Still another provision in the agreement states that it "may be terminated or modified by mutual agreement," which relieves the agreement from becoming a binding contract. Whether the plan is to be completed and when the plan is to be completed is up to the landowner. When a conservation plan is agreed upon by the landowner and the SCS technician, the technician assists the landowner carry out that plan as requested by the landowner.

In developing a plan for your farm or ranch, the practices recommended depend upon the capabilities of the land. A Soil Scientist of the Soil Conservation Service "maps" your land by determining: the texture of the top soil, the permeability (the rate of water intake), the amount of slope, and the amount of erosion that has already taken place. This soil survey map is of great value to both the landowner and the SCS technician in planning the conservation treatment for each particular farm or ranch.

If you have not asked for a conservation plan for your farm or ranch, the supervisors of the Randall-Potter SCD urge you to do so at your first opportunity. The soil srvey and the other technical assistance of the Soil Conservation Service, made available to you by the district, costs you nothing.

Is it possible that you might want to discuss the cooperative agreement with one of the supervisors before contacting the SCS technicians? If you do, the following men are the supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District:

J. W. Spencer, southwest of Canyon; Frank Begert, north of Umbarger; Marshall Rockwell Jr., north of Canyon; Charlie Conatser, southeast of Canyon; R. C. Sampson Jr., west of Bushland.

Pulitzer Prize Programs Given

Two programs on Pulitzer prizes of 1958 were presented to the Woman's Book Club.

Mrs. J. W. Kleinschmidt and Mrs. Charles Harter presented the most recent program last Wednesday. Mrs. Kleinschmidt discussed the prize winning novel, "A Death in the Family" by James Agee, which traced events in a boy's life from childhood to the death of his father.

Mrs. Harter reviewed five outstanding short stories.

Mrs. John Davis was elected to serve on the Library Board, taking the place of Mrs. Mary E. Sligar.

Mrs. C. A. Murray reported that a book was being selected in the memory of Mrs. I. F. SoRelle, who died earlier this month.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Ray Campbell. Members will exchange 25 cent gifts.

In the earlier meeting Mrs. T. V. Reeves and Mrs. A. A. Clark gave the program. Mrs. Reeves' topic was the prize winning editorial from the Gazette in Little Rock, Ark.

Mrs. Clark spoke on the drama, "Look Homeward Angel" written by Thomas Wolfe.

During the business session, Mrs. Bertha Matlock, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. Elmer Oberst and Mrs. John McClure were elected to membership. Mrs. Fred Standley was elected to serve on the Library Board to fill the vacancy created by Mrs. Bob Wear's resignation.

Mrs. Lee Johnson, president, announced that donations to the Christmas card project drive for the community center would be handed to Mrs. T. S. Maxwell, club treasurer.

Humanities Theme Of JWBC Session

"Under Humanities Flag" was the program for the Junior Woman's Book Club meeting Nov. 14 at the club room of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Mrs. Bob Bellah, program committee chairman, introduced Mrs. Roland Black and Mrs. Glenn Gardner, both of whom served as registered nurses in the United States Army during World War II.

Both gave an account of their experiences, training period and living and working conditions. Mrs. Gardner served in England, and Mrs. Black served in Wales and on the European continent.

In the business session, plans were made for a Christmas dinner for members and their husbands. The dinner will be held Dec. 13 at the First Methodist Church.

The club also voted to support the Christmas Card project drive again this year. Proceeds from the drive go toward building a community center. Although more than $1,000 was raised in last year's campaign, an additional $14,000 will be needed to remodel the American Legion Hall under plans approved by the Community Center Association.

Under the project, families donate the money usually used for Christmas cards to the Community Center fund.

CLUBS TO HAVE COMBINED MEETING

The Canyon Mother-in-Law and Social Pioneer Clubs will observe Thanksgiving with a singing and visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stewart, 1219 Third Avenue, at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. All members are invited.

Not All Play

The members of the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department took time on a cold drill night last week to practice putting out fires in automobiles. A hulk was filled with hay, doused with fuel, and set afire for the firemen to extinguish. It was set afire again and again to give plenty of practice.

Courtesies Honor Theresa Mickey

Theresa Mickey, bride-elect of Jack McCormick, was honored by two bridal courtesies recently.

A Coke party in the home of Mrs. Farrell Devenport, 405 Holman Lane, was held in Miss Mickey's honor Thursday, and a personal shower was given in the brick lounge last Tuesday.

Flowers of Miss Mickey's chosen colors, pink and wine, decorated the Devenport home. The table was centered with a bouquet of pink roses and wine mums atop a crystal base which enclosed a small bride and groom. A punch bowl filled with pink ice held Cokes.

A selection of cookies and nuts was also served.

The honoree wore a corsage of pink carnations and wine mums. Wearing pink carnations were Mrs. Devenport, Mrs. J. Alvin McDonald, Mrs. A. R. Mickey, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. B. E. McCormick, mother of the bride-groom-to-be.

Mrs. Meade Humphries played appropriate selections on the organ and Sandra Michael registered the guests.

A crystal vase was presented to Miss Mickey by Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Devenport.

At the personal shower, hostesses were Jackie Barnard, Barbara Shepard, Sandra Michael, Martha Harding, Mrs. Farrell Devenport and Mrs. Arlen Ruthart.

Miss Mickey's colors of pink and wine were carried out in the centerpiece and refreshments. Martha Harding registered guests.

Mrs. J. C. Dowd cared for her grandchildren in Happy while the parents were attending a J. I. Case sales meeting in Nassau. The Dowds' all-expense paid trip to the farm equipment meeting was a part of the Case company's unveiling of 1959 equipment and merchandising plans.

Fanning Revival To Begin Sunday

Evangelist Buckner Fanning will begin a seven day series of meetings Sunday in the First Baptist Church.

Services will be held at 7:30 nightly in the church, 1717 Fourth Avenue, with special services at 7 a. m., according to Dr. Strauss Atkinson, pastor.

With Fanning, a resident of Dallas, will be his regular soloist, Bill Jackson, a former member of the Los Angeles Light Opera Company. In the past three years, Jackson has devoted full time to Christian service.

During a recent two-week campaign in Augusta, Ga., 60,000 persons attended Fanning's services, and 1600 persons declared themselves for Christ.

Board Appoints Textbook Group

The subjects for which books will be selected are literature from the first through fourth grades and for the seventh and eighth grades, sciences in grades one through six, and homemaking for grades seven or eight.

The committee has five books in each subject for review, and must select one of the five. The original five books were selected by a statewide committee last summer. Rex Reeves, principal of the elementary school, was a member of the state committee.

Members of the Canyon textbook committee are Mrs. Irene Ball, L. H. Brotherton, Mary Carter, Mrs. Marvin Fite, Mrs. Jewel Hill, Mrs. Clara Long, J. E. Miller, Mrs. Flora Phillips, Reeves, Mae Simmons, Mrs. Cecil Simms, Mrs. Zula Usery, Mrs. A. L. Walsh and Mrs. Donna Wilson.

Bridal Shower Held At Barrett Home

A surprise miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Dick Barrett Friday complimented Mrs. Carol Kay Richard Daniel.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ray Metcalf, Mrs. J. T. Brown, Mrs. Lewis Harvey, Mrs. T. J. Myers, Mrs. Lewis Tucek and Mrs. Barrett.

The honoree's chosen colors, blue and white, were carried out in a centerpiece of a styrafoam heart outlined in blue ribbon set on a styrafoam base. Blue satin ribbons emerged bearing the names Carol and John.

The honoree's sisters, Pamela and Beverly Richard, served iced tea and cookies from a silver tea service.

Appropriate games were played.

The Daniels were recently married in Amarillo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richard.

Canyon Schools In Experiment

A new plan for student teaching practice in the state may be the end result of an experiment to be conducted by West Texas State College and six Panhandle public schools, including the Canyon schools.

The research will be conducted over a two-year period, and results will be evaluated and put into effect by the Texas Education Agency. Canyon's participation in the Texas Student Teacher Center Project was approved by the school board last week.

The six schools in the project are Amarillo, Hereford, Canyon, Tulia, Dumas and White Deer. The six schools will provide facilities and local supervision for all teacher education students in WT for 1959-60 and 1960-61.

An experimental unit of 10 student teachers, five in the fall and five in the spring, will be put into each of the schools. The student teachers will be guided by a "cooperating teacher."

The local schools and West Texas State will keep close records on the cost involved and the results obtained. The Fund for the Advancement of Education will provide money for the general admintration of the project.

In the public school "centers," the cooperating teacher will be designated as the guide for the student teacher. One fifth of the normal load of the teacher will be devoted to the students.

At the present time, the colleges offering work in teacher education use different methods of giving practice teaching and reimbursement to the public schools. The new project is aimed at making the system uniform over the state.

A&M Extension Specialists Give Recommendations on Meat Care

Refrigerators are bulging with extra supplies of turkey and all the trimmings for Thanksgiving dinner.

Foods and nutrition specialists from Texas A&M College Extension Service have stressed that proper storage is important to the safety, appetite appeal and flavor of turkey.

Specialists recommend that uncooked turkey should be wrapped loosely in aluminum foil or waxed paper and stored in the refrigerator at 36 to 38 degrees F. Whole birds may be kept this way for three days; cut-up turkey for two days.

Whole cooked birds without stuffing, such as barbecued turkeys, should be refrigerated at 36 to 38 degrees F. Wrapped loosely in foil or waxed paper, they may be kept up to three days, specialists say.

Proper care of left-over stuffed roast turkey is especially important. Specialists suggest removing all stuffing from the bird. Wrap meat and stuffing separately in waxed paper and store at 36 to 38 degrees F. Use stuffing and gravy within one or two days and heat thoroughly before serving.

Specialists definitely do not recommend freezing uncooked stuffed birds.

Mrs. Mona K. Hildreth, county home demonstration agent, has received a new Extension Service bulletin called "Let's Eat Turkey." The bulletin, besides carrying recipes for roasting whole and half turkeys, carries recipes for boneless turkey steaks, turkey pie and cream of turkey soup.

BSU Selects Favorite Prof

Helen White Moore, assistant professor of English, was picked "Favorite Professor" at the Baptist Student Union's annual breakfast honoring West Texas State College professors here Tuesday.

Miss Moore was presented a cake by the BSU before Buckner Fanning, Baptist evangelist, spoke to the more than 200 WT faculty and students.

The Rev. Fanning will open revival services Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

Presiding at the breakfast was the Rev. Arthur Brewer, director of the Baptist Student Center. A welcome was given by Don Holtzclaw of Dumas, BSU president, and invocation was by Claude Henderson of Sunray. Benediction was given by WT President James P. Cornette.

It's all right to speak straight from the shoulder, but be sure it originates a little higher up.

Phi Alpha Theta Installed at WT

West Texas State College's chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, was formally installed here Sunday.

The WT chapter, Zeta Upsilon and the 164th group in the nation, was installed in Randall Hall's brick lounge. Dr. David Vigness, professor of history at Texas Tech, read the formal services.

Installed as officers of the new chapter were Mickey King of Canyon, president, Clifford Ryan of Pampa, vice-president, Lugenia Hubbard of Canyon, secretary, and Mrs. Lowell Harrison of Canyon, treasurer.

Members of the organization were served refreshments following the meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harrison.
